A SEEMING PARADOX

we say "Light" we mean
ELECTRIC LIGHT

Electric Light is a good investment for any energetic business man intent on increasing his trade. Light attracts and the brilliantly illuminated store, other things being equal, will do the business. Astute merchants, realizing this truth, become lavish users of electric light, and you will notice that the store in any particular street or section which does the biggest business, is ninety-nine times in a hundred, the best lighted store.

This is not mere chance; it is the operation of a natural law. By working in harmony with this law you can increase your business.

If there are difficulties in the way, they can be removed. Write us about it. An intelligent representative will call at once and talk the matter over with you.

ALL AMERICAN PLAY IN JAPAN

By Associated Press.
Tokio, Aug. 15.—All details for the coming of the Reach-all-American baseball club have been arranged. It is now definitely settled that the ball players will come and play a series of at least nine games in Japan between November 12 and December 2.

Much interest is being taken in all the arrangements but particularly with regard to the team that will represent Japan. This team will be chosen by a committee and will be composed of the strongest players in this country.

CLASSY LOT OF 21 FAST CABIN YACHTS IN RACE

Chicago, Aug. 15.—The largest and classiest fleet of twenty-one foot cabin yachts that has yet sailed for the Lipton trophy, started in the initial race of the 1908 series today. Eleven of the twelve entrants were on hand for the contest, although up to the last few hours it was doubtful if Little Shamrock would be taken across the starting line.

The yachts sail twice over a course following the lines of an equilateral triangle whose sides are two miles in length or altogether twelve miles.

A TOTAL OF 170 TICKETS WERE SOLD YESTERDAY TO VARIOUS CITIES IN THE NORTH, LARGEST NUMBER GOING TO CHICAGO.

The cheap rates offered by the Louisville & Nashville on its annual excursion to large cities of the north, attracted a large crowd from Pensacola, the number to take the trip probably exceeding that of last year. During yesterday there was a total of 170 tickets sold. This does not include the tickets sold during the days previous, as many purchased tickets in advance so as to avoid possible delay. The total sales probably reached 200 tickets.

Chicago proved to be the most popular city with local residents, 62 tickets being to that city. Sales to other cities during yesterday were as follows: St. Louis 20, Cincinnati 27, Louisville 23, Asheville 13, Richmond 1, Washington 13, Tate Springs 2, Norfolk 4.

It Wasn't Fire—Nor Water.
A. M. Downes, late secretary of New York's fire department, related at a dinner a fire story.

"At the end of the first act of a drama," he said, "a man leaped hurriedly to his feet. 'I heard an alarm of fire,' he said. 'I must go and see where it is.' His wife, whose hearing was less acute, made way for him in silence, and he disappeared. 'It wasn't fire,' he said on his return. 'Nor water, either,' said his wife, coldly.—Everybody's Magazine.

ARMORY FOR NEW COMPANY

CAPT. J. E. DAVIS YONGE REQUESTS USE OF ARMORY FOR THE ARTILLERY COMPANY TO BE MUSTERED INTO SERVICE THE COMING WEEK.

The following letter received from Hon. J. E. Davis Yonge by the county commissioners, and read at the called meeting held last night is self-explanatory, touching as it does upon a subject which is of much interest to Pensacolians.

Hon. J. E. Davis Yonge is captain-elect of a company of state troops which will soon be mustered into service here.

The decision was made last night to take the matter up in the manner which it deserves.

The Letter.
"Pensacola, Florida, Aug. 15.
The Hon. Board of County Commissioners of Escambia county:

"Gentlemen: You are no doubt aware of the movement which has been on foot for some months past, with the object of establishing in this county a company of state troops. As the captain-elect of this company, and at their request, I request that you grant to this company when organized the use of the second floor of the annex to the county courthouse, for armory purposes. I feel certain that it is unnecessary for me to call to your attention the importance and value to this county of having such an organization here. For many years Pensacola was well represented in the state troops, but for a number of years past there have been no companies here. Formerly the county armory was used by the militia companies in Pensacola, and since they have been disbanded, the armory has been used only for occasional assemblies. Under the present conditions, it is not serving the purpose for which it was built, and is of practically no use to the county. If its use were granted to this company, it would serve its original purpose and assist very materially in procuring a military organization here.

"It is proposed to muster the company into service during next week, and it is necessary that an armory be arranged for before this can be done. I therefore respectfully request that your honorable body take action on this petition at your meeting tonight. Yours very truly,
J. E. DAVIS YONGE.

The Subject of Rent.
After having carefully perused the contents of Mr. Yonge's communication the board agreed to take the matter up from the standpoint of rental, which according to the statute, is due a county under these circumstances from the state, and before any action will be taken it will be ascertained what rent will be reasonable for the privilege asked.

PUNTA GORDA MUSICAL WELLS

Artesian Spouters that Served the Good Citizens of Gilchrist's Town.

The Punta Gorda Herald still tells of beauties and attractions of the town which gave to Florida a bachelor governor-elect. Fish stories Editor Jordan has told in plenty, and all who know Brother Jordan's reputation for veracity have expressed no doubt, so the following tale from the current issue of the Herald of the musical wells of this bachelor governor's village will also, it is hoped, be accepted in the same attitude as was the tale of the saw fish industry.

The Musical Wells.
Travelers with world-wide experience often speak of the strange strains that rise from a great city, where it is possible to ascend far enough above the turmoil to render the harsher sounds much modified. The combination rises like the far that is so distant to enable one to catch the entire air, and to the novice this experience is a most impressive thing.

That one might live in a flat country and enjoy a similar phenomenon would hardly be credited, but residents of Punta Gorda could assure you of this fact with much evidence of their veracity.

In the last six years, a number of artesian wells have been driven in our progressive little city for various commercial purposes—one eight-inch well at the present ice factory, four eight-inch wells at the defunct ice factory, one eight-inch city well and several lesser ones scattered about the city.

As a matter of course, no two of these wells have exactly the same pressure nor do they discharge the same quantity of water; consequently the roar of each well is in a different key. If we may be permitted the use of the expression, and as each well has been opened up, it was always noticed that its roar was not exactly like any of its predecessors. Then some musical soul in the community called attention to the similarity that these roars bore to a chime of bells; and, as well after well added its own distinctive note to the scale, the range and variety of the chime became almost infinite in its combination of harmonies.

air was heavy and sounds were carried with great clearness to long distances, the combined rhythm of our many wells, ranging from deep bass to rippling trebles, throbbled and swelled through our little burg, thrilling all true devotees of music with the rapture that Nature only can impart when conditions are right and man meets her half way.

The poet who rhapsodized over "the music of the spheres" was much nearer the truth than the common herd could comprehend, when his ear caught and revealed to the dull minds about him the glory of Nature's specialties in the musical line.

Punta Gordians, however, needed no trained ears to catch the strains of grand music played on the pipes provided by man, on which the great mother might play her terrestrial Melodies. The throbs of the deep bass mingled with the mellow tones of the two-incers and the rippling cadenzas of the smallest pipes, made a never-to-be-forgotten strain that permeated and clung to the mind like the lullabies we heard on our mother's breast.

As each of these wells have been muzzled to serve man in some mundane way, the chime has been robbed of first one note and then another, marring of course the harmony of the whole. Keen regret has been freely and openly expressed by true lovers of music in our town, whose souls revelled in the delight of such unique music, over the desecration of so wonderful a musical novelty, but let us hope that some day we may appreciate the advantage of real nature music, and Florida may be known as the Nature Lover's Paradise, where the peninsula is dotted over with musical pipes that sing a never ceasing song of grandeur, to the wonder and delight of less favored individuals who seek our environs for nature in her purest and most undiluted form.

We have been most modest in bringing this novelty of ours into prominence, but the time now seems most propitious for calling attention to it and its possibilities in other localities as well as our own, wherever artesian water may be tapped in our beautiful state.

FEW $10,000 BILLS.

"Yes, there is such a thing as a $10,000 bill, but I have never seen one of them," said W. B. Ridgely, president of the National Bank of Commerce, yesterday afternoon. "In fact I am not sure that there is one in Kansas City at all. They are mostly used in New York by the large clearing houses and are not put into circulation by the government. The Commerce has none in its vaults."

At the Union National bank it was said that fifty of the large bills represented a portion of the bank's legal reserve, but every one of them is a registered gold certificate issued by the treasury department of the government to the order of the national bank, and is payable only when it bears the endorsement of the bank or its officials.

The $10,000 bill is no larger than the ordinary "greenback," and can be carried safely in the pocket, provided no one besides the owner knows of its presence. At any rate, it is never used for ordinary business transactions, the $500 bill being considered the largest amount which it is advisable to put in circulation.

The First National Bank is not over-hardened with the $10,000 bills, it having only five of them. These are on deposit as a part of the legal reserve. The New England National Bank formerly kept several of the monster bills, but that was before the "flurry." At that time it was found to be very difficult to get one of the bills changed to counter currency. The bank officials deal only in counter currency now. It was said at many of the banks that there was no special advantage or convenience to be gained by keeping even a part of the reserve fund of the bank in such large specie.—Kansas City Journal.
